Second Generation

2. Magdelin Jones (Elizabeth Cunreds<sup>1</sup>)

Elizabeth and Griffith's daughter Magdelin is mentioned in Griffith's family bible. She was born on the 24th day of the 10th month (probably December) in 1710. She is probably the wife of Thomas Brown, who is mentioned in Griffith's will. Magdelin is not mentioned in the will, but it appears that she was still living, because a Magdalen Brown signed brother Aquilla's 1759 marriage certificate between the signatures of Caleb Jones and Susanna Mason.

6. Caleb Jones (Elizabeth Cunreds<sup>1</sup>)

Elizabeth and Griffith's son Caleb Jones is mentioned in Griffith's will and in some Quaker records. He married Ann Garrigues in Philadelphia in 1773.

Children of Caleb Jones and Ann Garrigues:

11. Griffith Jones; b: 1776
12. Samuel Jones; b: 1777

8. John Jones (Elizabeth Cunreds<sup>1</sup>)

Elizabeth and Griffith's son John Jones is mentioned in Griffith's will. He is probably the same John Jones, son of Griffith, who is mentioned in Quaker records as marrying Elizabeth Hudson at the Philadelphia Meeting in 1740/4/1, and Ann Brown in 1761. However, there were other Griffith Joneses in Philadelphia at the time, and John is a very common name.

9. Susannah Jones (Elizabeth Cunreds<sup>1</sup>)

Elizabeth and Griffith's daughter Susannah is identified in his will as Susannah Mason, though it is not clear who her husband, Mr. Mason, was. He is probably Abraham Mason, who signed the marriage certificate of Susannah's brother Aquilla directly under Susannah's name.

10. Aquilla Jones (Elizabeth Cunreds<sup>1</sup>)

Elizabeth and Griffith's son Aquilla was born in 1724, on the 24th day of the 4th month, apparently in Germantown. He married first Margaret Evans on the 25th day, 10th month 1759 at the Gwynedd Meeting House. They had two children, one of whom died in infancy. Wife Margaret died in 1765 at the age of 28. Shortly thereafter, Aquilla moved to New Jersey. He married Elizabeth Cooper at the Haddonfield Meeting in Gloucester County, New Jersey in 1767. Elizabeth was a member of the family that the Cooper River was named for; her great-grandfather was the first permanent European settler in the area that is now Camden, and founded a ferry across the Delaware River to Philadelphia. Aquilla and Elizabeth had three more children. Aquilla worked as a shipping agent. He had several indentured servants. Apparently, he did not share the anti-slavery sentiments expressed in the document written at his grandfather's house, because he owned at least one slave whose transfer record exists at the Camden County Historical Society. Aquilla lived in Gloucester County, New Jersey from 1777 until his death on the 15th day, 6th month 1800.

Third Generation

13. Mary Jones (Aquilla Jones<sup>10</sup>, Elizabeth Cunreds<sup>1</sup>)

Aquilla and Margaret's daughter Mary was born sometime between 1759 (when her parents married) and 1765 (when her mother died), though no record of the birth has been identified. In 1778, at the Haddonfield Meeting in Gloucester County, New Jersey, she married Marmaduke Cooper, the younger brother of Mary's step-mother, Aquilla's second wife, Elizabeth Cooper. The home that Mary and Marmaduke lived in, known as Pomona Hall, is now the site of the Camden County Historical Society. The M M 1788 written on the chimney of the building, refers to Marmaduke and Mary. Mary and Marmaduke had eight children, seven of whom are mentioned by name in Aquilla's will (daughter Mary died before Aquilla's will was written). Marmaduke died in 1795. Mary probably died before her father, who died in 1800, because she is not mentioned in his will but her children are.

Aquila and Elizabeth's son Isaac Cooper Jones was born in Woodbury, New Jersey in 1769. He voted for George Washington in the first United States presidential election. In 1797, he married Hannah Firth in Gloucester County, New Jersey. Hannah was a descendant of many Philadelphia and New Jersey notables, including William Penn's deputy governor, Thomas Lloyd; colonial Philadelphia mayor Samuel Preston; merchant Samuel Carpenter, and others. Isaac Cooper Jones brought the Jones family from New Jersey back to Pennsylvania, and later back to Germantown. At one time, he owned a plantation in Germantown extending from Stenton Ave to York Rd and from Cheltenham Ave to Washington Lane. Isaac Cooper Jones was a merchant with various dry goods firms, and was engaged in the East India business with branches in Liverpool and Canton. He died in Philadelphia in 1865, at the age of 96, and is buried at South Laurel Hill Cemetery.

 Isaac and Hannah's daughter Lydia was born in 1804. In 1826, she married Caspar Wistar, a prominent Philadelphia physician and the nephew of the Caspar Wistar for whom the plant wisteria was named. Caspar and Lydia had at least one son and one daughter. Caspar died in 1867. Lydia died in 1878.

Isaac and Hannah's son Isaac Cooper Jones, Jr. was born in Germantown in 1814. In 1840, Isaac Jr. married Sarah Whitall Woodruff, and was disowned by the Quakers for marrying contrary to discipline (marrying a non-Quaker). Ironically, it appears that Sarah was descended from a Quaker who was disowned, probably for participation in the Revolutionary War, and she appears to be a very distant cousin of Isaac Jr. on the Cooper side of the family. But Isaac Jr. began straying from the Quaker way at an early age -- while he was in boarding school, he wrote a letter to his father dated using secular names for the month, which his more traditional father disapproved of in a reply letter. After being disowned, Isaac Jr. became a Presbyterian and was actively involved in the Westside Presbyterian Church in Germantown. Isaac and Sarah had two sons. During the Civil War, he was a 2nd Lieutenant in Captain Mark J. Biddle's Germantown Company of Blue Reserves, the Emergency Corps of the Third Pennsylvania Reserves, and he saw active duty in Pennsylvania and Maryland, including the Battle of Antietam. In his younger days, Isaac Jr. worked for his father's dry goods firm. In 1856, he became a member of Wilson & Jones, a stock and bill brokers' firm. Later, he came to be the Vice President and then President of the Saving Fund Society of Germantown (later known as Germantown Savings Bank), a bank where his son and grandsons would later serve on the board. That bank was located at Germantown Avenue and School Lane, on the edge of the 50 acre property that his great-grandfather Griffith inherited from Thones Kunders, though no one in the family knew this until many years later. Isaac Jr. was still president of the board in 1895, at the age of 82 when he suffered an acute attack of pleuro-pneumonia and died a few days later. He is buried at North Laurel Hill Cemetery.

Fifth Generation

Isaac Jr. and Sara's first son, named Woodruff from Sarah's maiden name, was born in December, 1841. He graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1860. After college, he served in the Civil War as a Second Lieutenant, under Captain Landis of Battery A, First Pennsylvania Artillery. He served through the Antietam and Gettysburg campaigns. Woodruff was an accomplished musician, and served as an organist and choirmaster for the Westside Presbyterian Church and the First Prebyterian Church. On September 23, 1873, he married Sarah E. Dripps, and they had four children. Woodruff worked for and became an officer of Crew, Rogers and Crew, a firm of manufacturing chemists making white lead, oil and color. Later, he was vice president and treasurer of paint dealer John T. Lewis Brothers. He boasted that he had voted Republican in every election since Lincoln. His date and cause of death are unclear; he was alive at the age of 81 in 1924, when he wrote a letter to the Germantown Guide discussing the Jones family history, but was described in a 1934 article as having died "a few years ago." A death notice for him, clipped from a newspaper, has the handwritten date "9-18-1928," but it's not clear how accurate that date is, particularly given that the obituary describes him as 82 years old but he would have been 86 by that time.

Isaac Jr. and Sarah's second son, Thomas Firth Jones, was born on March 18, 1844. He graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1862, then served in the Civil War as a private in Company A, 1st Philadelphia Artillery. He was a private at the Battle of Gettysberg. He was a founder and elder in the Westside Presbyterian Church in Germantown, and was superintendant of their Sunday School. Later he was an elder at the First Presbyterian Church. He married Cornelia Erringer on June 11, 1874. Cornelia was the daughter of banker John Livingston Erringer, who was associated with Thomas's father, Isaac Jr., through the banking business, and they lived near each other in Germantown. Thomas and Cornelia had two sons. Thomas was a member of Archer & Reeves, later known as Reeves, Parvin and Company, an importing and wholesale grocery firm. He was also involved in the banking business, like his father, and was a director of the Saving Fund Society of Germantown and the Market Street National Bank. Thomas died on March 19, 1908 of heart failure attributed to a violent attack of erysipelas. He was buried at West Laurel Hill Cemetery.

Woodruff and Sarah's daughter Anna was born on November 2, 1876. She was working as a Presbyterian missionary in Japan when she met Henry James Bennett, an ordained minister. They married in Germantown on July 31, 1905, while he was on leave. They returned to Japan and worked as Christian missionaries in Tottori, where he performed evangelistic and educational work and she was the principal of kindergarten and worked with women and girls. It is uncertain when Anna died, but she was still living when her father Woodruff died in the 1920s. Anna and Henry had five children born in Tottori, three of whom were still living in 1992.

Woodruff and Sarah's daughter Sara Elizabeth was born in February, 1879. She married Conover English, an attorney from New Jersey, on June 25, 1908. They had two sons, both now deceased, Woodruff Jones English and Nicholas Conover English. The family resided in Elizabeth, New Jersey. Sara died in July, 1967.

Woodruff and Sarah's daughter Sara Elizabeth was born in August 20, 1880. She married John T. Emlen, a social worker, on March 6, 1906. They resided in Germantown. Mary and John had four children, who may still be living. It is unclear when Mary died, but she was still living in 1930, when she and her family appeared in the census.

The first son of Thomas and Cornelia was Livingston Erringer Jones, born March 30, 1878 in Germantown. He attended Penn Charter and went on to Princeton University, where he graduated in 1899 with a B.S. degree. He married Edith Bolling on June 23, 1908. This Edith Bolling is apparently not related to President Woodrow Wilson's wife of the same name. After college, Livingston was affiliated with his father's business, Reeves, Parvin & Company, Wholesale Grocers. For many years, he served on the Board of Managers of the Saving Fund Society of Germantown, where his father had been manager and his grandfather president. Livingston was president of the Saving Fund Society of Germantown from 1911 to 1922, when he went on to become the president of the First National Bank of Philadelphia. He represented the 3rd Federal Reserve District on the board of the National Credit Corporation. Livingston and Edith lived in Chestnut Hill and had three children, who may still be living. In August, 1941, Livingston was visiting his daughter and son-in-law at a ranch in Wyoming when he was stricken with acute appendicitis. He died from complications of appendectomy surgery in Jackson Wyoming on August 30, 1941.

Arthur Woodruff Jones, the second son of Thomas and Cornelia, was born October 22, 1879 in Germantown. He attended Penn Charter and graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1900. After college, he worked as a clerk for William Simpson Sons & Co. Commission House. Later, he became associated with the Saving Fund Society of Germantown, like his brother, father and grandfathers. In 1927, he became president of the Saving Fund Society, a position he held for 24 years. He continued as Chairman of the Saving Fund Society from 1951 to 1956. Arthur married Dorothea Rehn around 1906, and they had five daughters between 1907 and 1920. Dorothea died in 1926. In 1932, he married a second time to Louisa Mather Wallis, and had three more children, including two sons. Arthur successfully led the Saving Fund Society through the Great Depression, which led one Germantown newspaper to write a biography of him that spoke in reverent terms of Arthur and his ancestry. Arthur was an Elder in the Westside Presbyterian Church and a director of the Whosoever Gospel Mission. He died on March 7, 1957
